Safety information for landowners

WESTERN POWER
DISTRIBUTION

Serving the Midlands, South West and Wales

Simple actions can save lives

Be aware of the electrical apparatus that's around you

Western Power Distribution is responsible for maintaining the electricity network across the Midlands, South West England and South Wales - the vital equipment that carries electricity to our homes and businesses.

We all use electricity. It enables us to live our lives to the full, but it needs to be treated with care because it can also be extremely dangerous.

As a responsible landowner, farmer or leisure business operator who may have our equipment on your property, we are keen to work with you to ensure that those who use your land stay safe.

So if you have our power lines, cables or substations on or across your land, we are here to provide advice and guidance to enable you, your employees, your customers and the general public to always think safe and stay safe.

20 In the UK in recent years, up to 20 people have been killed and 400 injured after coming into contact with the electricity network.

Please visit our website www.westernpower.co.uk/safetyadvice to find out more about staying safe around electricity or to download our free warning posters and advice leaflets.
